THE WAY IT WAS

Comments by former residents (years of residency)

MR. EDWARD M. TIGHE (1928-43)

"I enjoyed it very much. The addition was not yet part of Dallas. Most of the streets were gravel and the whole area had a country feeling. I knew most of the people in the addition or at least most of the children."

MRS. ARTHUR BRUNING (1932-36)

"Delightful, all new and nice."

MRS. ARTHUR NAZRO (1939-41)

"It was a lovely quiet area and our neighbors were wonderful to us."

MR. OLIVER W. HAMMONDS (1946-56)

"Life in general was pleasant due to the rural, rustic nature of the neighborhood and the nearby then pleasure of White Rock Lake."

MR. CARL S. MAKEIG (1949-1977)

"My family often commented that, in many ways, the years we lived on Santa Clara Drive were among the happiest of our lives. On a visit from my son, Wesley (Dr. J. W. Makeig) and his family who had come down from Amarillo for a visit, he said, 'Dad, when you turn off Garland Road into Forest Hills, you leave the big city noises and, as well, perhaps some problems behind. It's really Mockingbird Hill.' For twenty-eight years, we lived on the 8100 block of Santa Clara Drive. Many family reunions on birthdays, at Christmas, and other anniversaries. Home movies and other pictures. The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Makeig and myself on June 26, 1963. Halloween! Many children, often as many as 60 or 70, some times even more! Many congenial neighbors. Friendly, helpful. A pleasure to know them."

MRS. EDWARD J. O'BOYLE (1958-71)

"I felt it was super for raising a family. As you know, all seemed to have young children at one time and, since our blood relatives were mostly afar, I felt that 8100 Santa Clara was something of an extended family."

WARREN D. FULCHER (circa 1960)

"I remember how I loved to spend the weekends there with my grandparents. There were big trees to climb and squirrels to watch. The yard and shrubs were manicured to perfection. At age nine, I could always find some new place to explore.I still have occasion to drive by their old house and remember my dream as a child, to live in a stone house on Santa Clara!"

JAMES C. CURTIS (1965-72)

"Great neighbors, great neighborhood, friendly atmosphere, plenty of young people mixed with a good cross-section of matured adults (rare exceptions)."

BONNIE AND CLYDE

Mr. Edward M. Tighe (1928-43)

"On the east end of the addition, there was a water tower that served the area. After it came into Dallas, the tower stayed for a few years and was great fun to climb. Just west of our house near Highland Drive, there was a large gravel pit which was great fun to the children. I can recall that, on Highland Road near the gravel pit, Joe McElroy, who is now the U. S. Court Clerk, Tom Tisdale, who died as a teenager, and myself were playing policemen. We even had a police whistle and cap pistols. We stopped a car which contained a man and a woman in a tan Ford convertible. After the car stopped, the man pointed a pistol at us and we ran away as fast as possible. At least I am convinced that they were Clyde Barrows and Bonnie Parker!

We used to hunt snakes near the White Rock Creek and fish in the creek which was great for catfish and turtles. I can recall that we did a lot of hunting for rabbits and can recall that, when I was younger and playing in the gravel pit, we could hear bullets going over our heads. The area was great fun for young people growing up as it had the feeling of the country and still had the advantages of the city.

I can recall during the Depression a house south of ours was built by a man and his wife by themselves. It took them much longer than normal, but it turned out very well and, of course, is still there today."

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH

Mrs. Edward J. O'Boyle (1958-71)

"For a few years, at least, a troop of little tykes would appear at one's door about lunchtime - sometimes breakfast - and, by dinner time, they would spontaneously find another welcome somewhere down the street. One never knew who would come or how many."

SERENITY

Mr. Carl S. Makeig (1949-77)

"There were a few vacant lots in the 8100 block when we made our home there in 1949. There were soon occupied with new residences. Many great trees were well preserved. Many residents of the block have lived there through long years of quiet contentment. It is not easy to move away from it."

LEAVES - LEAVES - LEAVES

Mr. Warren D. Fulcher (circa 1960)

"One day, my brother and sister and myself raked the yard and made a big pile of leaves in the backyard under a tree. We wanted to jump out of the tree into the leaf pile, but the pile wasn't really big enough so we went around the neighborhood raking leaves and depositing them there in my grandfather's back yard until the pile was big enough. You should have seen my grandfather's face when he saw what looked like half the leaves in the neighborhood in his backyard. I think he finally made a compost bin around the pile."

ALL THE CHILDREN

Mr. Edward M. Anderson (1956-present)

"The whole block was a vast playground. It seemed as if it was always recess time with the sounds of happy children at play. Thus, it was in the late sixties when there was a host of children living in our block. They climbed trees, fished in the creek, played in the gravel pit, rode their bicycles and tricycles all over the place, built tree houses and roller skated. It was remarkable that there were so many children (about 46) on one block at one time. It was even more remarkable that there was so little dissension and trouble was non-existent.

Hallowe'en was always a big occasion on this block - and the children's favorite gathering place was the Makeigs. Mr. and Mrs. Makeig and their daughter, Louise Mueller, always decorated the house, dressed in "scary" costumes and had card tables arrayed with homemade candies and cookies for the "hobgoblins" that rang their doorbell.

The child population on this block increased substantially when the Bruce family (8130) moved to the block shortly after the E. M. Andersons' (8155) arrival in 1956. The Bruce family had four children (Lance, Reagan, Camille, and Mignon) which later increased to seven with the arrival of Lynn, Lucy, and Grady. The Anderson children numbered five (David, Martha, Mackey, Sally, and Freddie). The population explosion reached its height in 1965 when Jim and Terry Curtis moved to 8184 with their seven children (Nick, Christi, Jimmy, Philip, Meg, Timmy, and Tracy) in 1965. The predominantly "redheaded" O'Boyle children at 8114 already numbered eight (Dennis, Mike, Patricia, Mary Kay, Bridget, Timmy, Christopher, and Joseph) when the eighth Curtis child arrived (Andrea) several years later. Both the Laflammas at 8163 (Rusty, Mimi, Tom, Jean, and John) and the Andersons at 8155 added to the population with five children each. The Landers' four children (Carole, Mark, Linda, and Allen) were all still living at home when the family moved to 8145 in 1966.

The Morley family (8169) of four children (Tommy, Ronnie, Susan, and Danny) were also actively involved in the playtime activities. Bruce Queen, an outstanding high school track man and his younger brothers, Bob and Brian, were living at 8131 at this time. Troy Garitty (8178) was also numbered among the little people on the block.

Down at the end of the block at 8106 lived Hugh and Bill Waggener. They had a trampoline and two golden retriever dogs that were prime attractions for children to congregate in their shady backyard.

With the advent of the Seventies, first the O'Boyles moved to Illinois, and a year later, the Curtises moved to Kansas City. The rest of the kids in that group went to college, married, or moved away. The glorious years when all the childres were here have passed, but the pleasant memories of their presence still lingers."

THE BEAUTIFUL GHOST OF WHITE ROCK LAKE

The sound of a doorbell ringing, the signs of water on a car seat or porch floor, and the sighting of a beautiful young woman clad in an evening dress have been described by responsible White Rock area people for approximately fifty years. Because of her sudden phantom-like appearances and disappearances, the "spirit" has been designated "The Beautiful Ghost of White Rock Lake".

According to the legend as described by Frank X. Tolbert in his book, Neiman Marcus, Texas, a beautiful blonde girl ghost appeared on a road near Dallas' White Rock Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Malloy who were directors of display for the Neiman Marcus store saw the girl in the headlights of their car. Mrs. Malloy asked her husband to stop and render aid. The girl appeared to be troubled and her fine dress and long hair were wet. The girl spoke in a friendly, cultured voice and asked to be taken to an address on Gaston Avenue in the nearby Lakewood section. Mrs. Malloy was sure that the beautiful dress the girl was wearing had been purchased at the "Store." The young lady slipped by Mrs. Malloy into the back seat of the two-door sedan.

When Mr. Malloy started the car, Mrs. Malloy turned to talk with the young lady. The girl had vanished! There was only a damp spot on the back seat.

The Malloys went on to the Gaston Avenue address where the middle-aged man who answered the door said that he had a daughter with long blonde hair who had drowned about two years before after falling off a pier at White Rock Lake!

Although no one in the 8100 block of Santa Clara has ever, to my knowledge, reported seeing the Ghostly Lady, there is strong evidence that she visited two blocks away in September, 1962. According to Mr. Dale Berry who moved into the large two-storied home at 8200 San Fernando Way, the following events occurred the first night he spent in the house: "The doorbell rang. I went to the door. There was no one there. I closed the door, but the doorbell rang again. I quickly opened the door and, again, there was no one there. I waited near the door for a few minutes and nothing happened. I went back to my chores, and again the bell rang. This time, my daughter answered the door and stepped out on the porch.

"There were signs of water as if someone had stood there dripping wet. The water trailed up the steps and ended in a big puddle in front of the door."

¹Frank X. Tolbert, Neiman-Marcus, Texas (Henry Holt and Company, 1953), p. 1-3.

Miss Berry, who had heard tales of the ghost, screamed and slammed the door. Mr. Berry ran out of the house and looked around the front yard and shrubs. The yard and street were deserted.

"Several times during the night the doorbell rang and each time no one was there," continued Mr. Berry. All this occurred in a neighborhood not given to practical jokes, especially all-night ones. The sprinkler wasn't on. The yard was bone dry but always the puddles were there.²

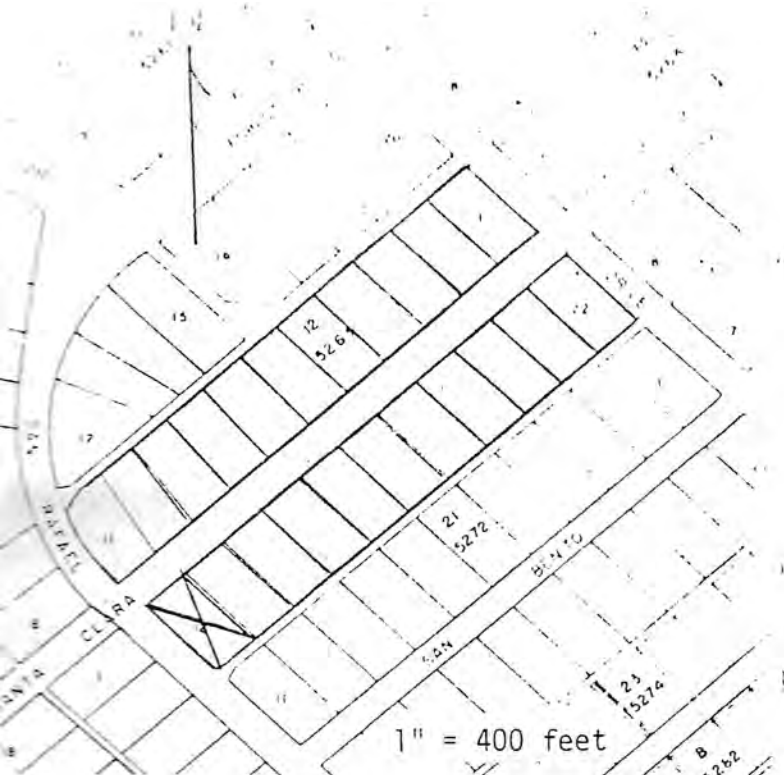

Another report involving a sighting of the phantom lady was reported in 1964 by the late Mrs. Lily V. Leonard of 8903 Groveland in April, 1964. Mrs. Leonard, who was formerly a poll watcher of Alex Sanger School, reported that her son, Bill Leonard, and his wife, had an experience with the beautiful ghost.

The girl again reverted to hitchhiking, reported that she had had an accident at the lake and expressed the need of a ride to an address on Gaston Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Leonard picked her up one night on White Rock Drive and drove her to the Gaston Avenue address. When they stopped to let her out of the car, the door slammed and she disappeared "as if she'd gone up in smoke."³

When does this beautiful and stylishly dressed Lady Ghost of White Rock Lake make her appearances? Judging from the stories we have heard, she seems to be moving about the time that parties are breaking up on weekend nights in the Spring of the year.
